Class Elections Begin Tonight; 26 Candidates Try for Posts

NO VOTING BY PROX

14 Frosh Candidates; Ballot Boxes Placed in Medical, Law Schools

Juniors, sophomores and freshmen will this week choose their class officers from a roster of 26 candidates for the various positions. Joe Danzansky is running unopposed for president of the senior class.

The sophomore class will be the first to hold its elections, in a meeting to-night in Corcoran Hall at 8 o'clock. Bourke Floyd will be in charge. No voting by proxy will be permitted.

Tomorrow at noon, at the same place, the freshman elections will be held, with Jack Jones presiding. The same election rules prevail.

Junior class elections will take place Wednesday, with ballot boxes located on the first floors of Corcoran Hall, the Medical School, and the Law School.

The senior council will be elected at a later date, and the other class officers will be chosen from this group. One representative from each school and division of the University will have a place on this council.

The freshmen lead in the number of candidates running. Nomination petitions have been received from 14 of them for the various positions. Seven sophomores are running, and six juniors.

George Emmart, chairman of the Student Council committee on class elections, announces the following rules for eligibility to vote:

1. A student must be in good academic standing.
 2. Juniors must have over 60 hours' credit, and less than 90.
 3. Sophomores must have been in the University for at least two semesters, and must have less than 60 hours' credit.
 4. Freshmen must have been in the University less than two semesters.
- The method of electing freshman class officers differs this year from last year, in that formerly only the president was elected in an assembly, the others being elected by balloting.

Roberts Will Speak On Radio Program

"Thinking on Your Feet" to Be Subject of Talk Thursday Over WMAL

The speaker on The George Washington University radio hour next Thursday evening will be Assistant Professor Henry Goddard Roberts, of the department of public speaking. The program will originate from station WMAL and will be broadcast at 8:30 p. m.

The subject of Professor Roberts' address will be "Thinking on Your Feet," and in it he will tell what one should do when called upon unexpectedly to address an audience. Professor Roberts will describe what goes to make up a good extemporaneous speaker and some good rules to observe when speaking upon short notice.

The speaker on the same program last week was Raymond J. Seeger, assistant professor of physics. His subject was "The Matter Indestructible?" and in his address he described how scientists have been able to break all matter down to the atom. Professor Seeger dwelt at some length upon some of the more recent discoveries in this field. He described the finding of the electron and proton and discussed the theories of cosmic rays and the mystery of energy.

Helvestine Approval Spurs Prom Plans

Financial plans having been approved by William Helvestine, president of the Student Council, the interfraternity pledge group is eagerly going forward with arrangements for the second annual neophyte prom. Champ Carter, social chairman, is handling the advance sale of tickets to the affair which is scheduled for December 9, at the Shoreham Hotel.

Maxim Lowe's Shoreham Hotel Orchestra, under the direction of Barnet Breskin and featuring Bert Bagranoff, soloist, will supply the music for the dance, which will be held in the west ballroom of the hotel from 10 until 1 a. m. Both Breskin and Bagranoff are former George Washington men.

O. D. K. Will Conduct Tapping Ceremonies At Homecoming Ball

Six Outstanding Students and One Faculty Member to Receive Bids

As the clock strikes midnight at the Homecoming ball Saturday, six outstanding students and one faculty member will be tapped by Omicron Delta Kappa, men's national honorary activities fraternity.

The annual fall ceremony will be conducted by Wendell Bain, president of the local chapter. Provost Wilbur, a member of the group, will give a short talk stressing the aims and ideals of the organization before the men are tapped.

These men, by being selected for membership in this society, receive the highest honor any George Washington student can receive for extra-curricular activity.

Membership in Omicron Delta Kappa is limited to juniors and seniors. Selection is made twice a year and is based on scholarship and activity achievements. The requirements call for, besides a point average of 2.00, participation in at least one major activity position and two minors.

The fraternity is particularly active on the campus. Yearly it sponsors the freshman mixer, and recently it cooperated with Hour Glass to give a dance in honor of visiting high school press delegates.

Medical Aptitude Examinations Set For December 6

The medical aptitude tests of the Association of American Colleges, which is required by 69 of the 74 Class A medical schools in the country, will take place at 3 p. m., Wednesday, December 6. While The George Washington University Medical School is one of the five not requiring this examination, students who are making applications to other schools of medicine as well as George Washington are advised to take the test.

The test is given only once a year and it is not necessary that all pre-medical requirements be completed at the time it is taken. If pre-medical requirements be completed in time for entrance to medical school next fall, all students expecting to enter the school at that time should take this test, it was said.

Information as to the individual schools requiring this test can be had from Henry F. Hubbard of the psychology department, or Professor Bowman, pre-medical adviser. Applications should be made before December 6 to Mr. Hubbard in Building B. A fee of $1, which should be paid at the time application is made, is charged by the association to defray the expenses of the tests.

Luther Club Discussions Under Seeger Concluded

The Luther Club concluded its series of discussion groups for the first semester Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Lambie House, under the leadership of Dr. Raymond Seeger, of the physics department.

Among the topics considered were healing and the honor system.

Plans for the Luther Club Christmas party, to be given December 13, were made at a meeting of the committees in charge held before the discussion group. Myrtle Mohagen is in charge of decorations; Eleanor Smith, refreshments; George Towderman, tickets; and John Albert, publicity. Tickets will be ready for distribution this week. They may be obtained by calling John Albert at West 2013-W.

A big, hard-driving, fast, Jayhawker eleven from Kansas, which is just reaching its fullest strength this season, provides the competition for Jim Pixlee's Buff and Blue clad boys in Griffith Stadium Saturday afternoon in the final game of the 1933 grid season. Thousands of old grads will be on hand for the Homecoming contest, witnessing in the K. U. team an eleven whose record since it tied Notre Dame early in the season has been nothing to speak of, but one which hit its full stride against Iowa State two weeks ago and will be in first-class shape Saturday.

Cochman Adrian Lindsay's outfit has set a big task for itself, however, for the Jayhawkers meet Missouri Thanksgiving Day and entrain immediately for Washington to meet G. W. two days later.

Purchase Increases University's Plant

Acquisition of Adjacent Dwelling Adds Another Title to Block

President Marvin yesterday announced the purchase of the dwelling at 2013 H street as one more step in the acquisition of complete title to the block on which the University stands.

Workmen were busy yesterday removing the fence which separated the back yard of the residence from the University Yard. The building will not be used for University purposes before next spring, Dr. Marvin stated.

Asked if the several purchases made since he came to the University were not an indication that the University would not move, the president said: "No, not at all; but if we did decide to move, the property complete would be much easier to handle."

All groups presenting skits at the Homecoming rally will hold a rehearsal at the Central High auditorium on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock. Joe Danzansky, chairman of the rally committee, states.

Hon. Harry Woodring, Assistant Secretary of State, Honor Guest

Alumni and undergraduates of George Washington University are taking a prominent part in the activities of the local Legal Aid Bureau, which has just completed its first year of work in the handling of approximately 900 meritorious cases for destitute clients.

Directed by Beatrice A. Clephane, L.L.B., '24, the volunteer staff of twelve members includes Helen Prentiss, Mrs. Elizabeth Cox, Julian L. Latimer, Jr., Harryman Dorsey and James Earnest, serving as attorneys, assisted by David Betts, Thela Call, H. J. Barlow, Richard Tilden and Stanley Bobskill, students in the Law School. The bureau has offices at 1418 I street.

William C. VanVleck, dean of the Law School, and Judge J. Wilmer Latimer, professor of law, serve the bureau as an advisory committee.

Cases handled by the bureau involve wage collections, debts, landlord and tenant relationships, installment contracts, non-support of dependents and other civil actions except personal injury, divorce and bankruptcy cases. Miss Clephane states that many of the cases brought to the bureau are amicably settled without court action.

The local Legal Aid Bureau is one of a group of 80 similar agencies established throughout the country. Beatrice Clephane, its director, is the daughter of Colonel Walter C. Clephane, member of the Law School faculty and is a member of Kappa Beta Pi, international legal sorority, and Kappa Alpha.

Engineers Council Schedules Mixer

The Engineers' Council of the School of Engineering will be hosts to students, parents and friends at a mixer meeting, tonight, in the Engineering Building.

The program will consist of open house from 7:30 to 8:30 p. m., after which Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of the University, and Professor John R. Lapham, dean of the School of Engineering, will speak. Later Mr. George O. Sanford, chief engineer of the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation, will illustrate his lecture on Boulder Dam with motion pictures. Mr. Sanford, for 25 years engaged in the construction of irrigation projects in Wyoming and Montana, has only recently returned from an inspection tour of Boulder Dam.

During the evening professors of the Engineering School will explain work being done at the University and experiments required in the course of study will be performed.

2,000 Expected to Fill Central Auditorium for Pep Rally

OFFER VARIED PROGRAM

Marvin, Borden, Pixlee to Speak; New School Song to Be Presented

More than 2,000 students and alumni will jam the Central High auditorium at 8 p. m. Friday night to "whoop it up" in the second annual Homecoming rally preceding the Kansas-Colonial game the next day.

Preparations have been completed for a short and colorful program in which faculty members, alumni, and representatives of all major campus organizations will participate. Skits, pep talks, songs, dances, and cheers have been arranged for by Edith Grosvenor and Joe Danzansky, in charge of the rally, who forecast that the festivities will be heard for blocks around.

After an overture by the band and the singing of the Buff and Blue, President Marvin and Dr. Daniel LeRay Borden, alumni president, will speak. Delta Tau Delta will present the minstrel act which won first place in the interfraternity competition last Wednesday night. Acacia, having run the Delta a close second in the tryouts, also will appear on the program.

The Delta Tau Delta skit consists of a minstrel show in miniature, with traditional songs, dances, and an orchestra. The "darker" are Carroll Nash, Ashton Scharr, George Scharr, William Pates, Everett Woodward, Bob Lowendar, Jeff Donaldson, and Gaines Gough. With a tempo shift from colored comedienne to a group of royalty, Acacia offers Bud Hawser, Walter Johnson, Jr., Dick Nichols, Loring Silbet, and Harold Sangster as actors as well as actresses pro tempore.

International Clubs To Convene Here

Local Group Sponsors Sessions; 100 Delegates Expected

One hundred delegates, representing 57 colleges and universities, will attend the annual conference of International Relations clubs of the Middle Atlantic states held here on Friday and Saturday, December 8 and 9. The conference is held under the auspices of the International Relations Club of George Washington University.

The conference will concern itself chiefly with Pan-American affairs as the Seventh International Conference of American states will be in session in Montevideo at the same time. Officials of the Pan-American Union and many eminent Spanish-American scholars from the universities will address the sessions and lead round-table discussions.

Among the leading addresses of the conference will be those of President Marvin, of George Washington University, who will welcome the delegates; Dr. E. Gil Borges, assistant director of the Pan-American Union, also an address of welcome; Miss Hemingway Jones, of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace; Dr. Charles C. Tansill, professor of American history at American University, who will speak on the Monroe Doctrine; James A. Reid, lecturer on Latin

Two Law Sororities Publish Rush Rules

Kappa Beta Phi and Phi Delta Delta, international legal sororities, announce the following rush rules for the year 1933-34 in accordance with an agreement of the legal inter-sorority council.

All those registered in the George Washington Law School for at least six semester hours and who have obtained at least six semester hour credits with a passing average are eligible to become active members.

Two rushing parties will be given by each sorority during the rushing season, the dates of which are as follows:

Kappa Beta Phi—December 9 and 17; Phi Delta Delta—December 10 and 16. Bids will be mailed after 10 p. m., Sunday, December 17 and shall be replied to before 5 p. m., the following Tuesday, December 19.

Greetings, Old Grads!

WELCOME, Alumni!

It is with sincere pleasure that The Hatchet extends at this time its greetings to the thousands of men and women throughout the country who call The George Washington University their alma mater.

Friday and Saturday will be gala days at the University. We are glad that many of you will be with us to enjoy them. The program is crowded with colorful activity. You will like the rally with a snappy, youthful, festive program of laughs, music and inspiration. We'll all enjoy the women's program at the Ellipse, the reception at Lambie House, the open houses by the fraternities, and, finally, the formal Homecoming ball at the Willard Hotel.

But the big event is the Kansas game on Saturday afternoon. We are already beginning to have that tense feeling that comes with believing that the Colonials are going out to Griffith Stadium and beat the Jayhawkers to supply the only factor still lacking for a perfect Homecoming.

"The Debt Situation"

BOTH the freshman and junior classes last year went into debt and are still in debt. We are informed that the members of these classes have the idea that this week, as soon as class elections are over, these debts will be automatically assumed by the freshman and junior classes of this year.

Nothing could be more unjust. The freshman and junior classes of last year, now the seniors and sophomores, contracted the debts and enjoyed the dances. The freshmen of this year didn't even attend the University last year. Then why should the debt be shifted?

It is true that in many university organizations business passes, from year to year, to the new members when the old members become inactive or graduate. Such would be the case with a fraternity or club. The organization outlives the activity of its members and the property, debts and traditions pass on to the new officers.

But the classes are organized as the class of 1934 or 1936. In most universities the classes maintain their identity for practical purposes long after they have lived their undergraduate life and have lost the distinction of senior or sophomore. Even at George Washington where that type of class organization is not emphasized, the traditions of a group like the senior class have been developed each year by the same students without regard to whether they are any longer freshmen or in any other year.

There is no justification for leaving the debts of last year behind to be inherited by the next classes. Let the same students who danced, pay the fiddler.

An Auditorium

ONE of the greatest needs of the University at the present time in a physical way, is an auditorium. This need is brought home more forcefully than ever this week by the necessity of going to Central High School to hold the Homecoming rally. That function more than any other should be held at the University. At such a rally the pride of students and alumni in their alma mater should be at its highest. It is discouraging to try to think that the Kansas University football team can not compare with the Colonials but at the same time have the feeling that Central High is better equipped to support its football team with a pep rally than George Washington. The few assemblies held by the University during the last two years have been only successful enough to indicate an urgent demand for more. Dr. Marvin on several occasions has expressed the wish that it were possible to assemble all of our students at one time. While the weather is good assemblies in the University yard are fairly satisfactory, but they are out of the question during the winter and most of the spring.

We know that an auditorium is an expensive proposition but when building does begin we hope that one of the first needs to receive attention will be that of an auditorium.

L. ROYAL ALSTON and Walter A. Sommers were elected captain and manager, respectively, of the 1909 football team. Elections took place at the first annual football banquet.

A total of 1,868 students registered in the University, according to figures just released by the registrar's office. This was an increase of 110 over the previous year.

Letters To The Editor

TO THE EDITOR:

I think that your editorial "Why Play Tulsa" was well written and expressed the ideas of many of our students. Many people not connected with the school have asked why G. W. plays so many Western teams, that no one knows about. Let's hope that the athletic department considers this when it is making up the schedule.

I would like to add two more points which might be worth considering.

1. Try to establish our game each year that we could look forward to, where some rivalry existed between the teams.

2. Try to get more local men for the team. There are plenty of good ones around.

Economics and the Depression

Classroom Affords Study of Important Problems Apart From Influence of Self-Interest

By DR. D. H. BUCHANAN, Associate Professor of Economics
The seriousness of the present depression and the inability of economists to forestall it adequately, to explain its origin or to prescribe for its removal, has led many students to question whether the study of economics is worth while. It is true that many aspects of economic life are yet beyond control; and some of these may remain so. But this is because of the great complexity of both national and international economic phenomena and the amazing speed at which large-scale exchange economy has developed.

The miseries of these years are due not so much to the fact that "economics has failed" as to the fact that, in the train of a disastrous war and an equally disastrous peace, many governments have disregarded some of the most fundamental and long established economic teachings, especially those regarding currency and trade.

Persons who are untrained in economics often expect the impossible. Unlike most of the "natural" sciences, economics does not lend itself to small-scale, controlled, experimentation. While economists learn much from the careful observation and analysis of individual and group reactions, they must gather most of their data from the inadequate records of earlier and different times and from the complex currents of everyday economic life. "Other things" seldom "remain equal" but commonly change in ways which are both difficult to observe and almost impossible to measure.

The problem is seldom one of exact

JUST BETWEEN US--

By LUDWIG CAMINITA

WITH the second annual Homecoming only a few days off, there will be much hustle and bustle as the campus prepares for the big events. We of the present school generation are apt to think of Homecoming as a round of dances, games, fraternity get-togethers, colorful football games, uproarious rallies, and returning grads. The last, "and returning grads," is usually an afterthought with many of us.

I wonder why grads do return? School spirit, say some. Others might say, "Oh just another excuse to have a good time and get you in a corner to tell you about the time they dragged the goal posts over the field when they won the game in '98." And we look about us with boredom at these inevitable fixtures we find in every university—the returning grad.

It seems to me that it is something more than a good time that brings the grad back; something more than seeing a few old buildings he saw for four years back in '98. I like to think of them as still possessing school spirit. And what is school spirit, you say.

Well, we all have our definition of school spirit. To me, it means not the mere name George Washington University and the buildings that go to make the institution. When I graduate, I feel that it will be the name and what goes with that name that will give me that peculiar feeling called school spirit. When I hear George Washington University, then, I shall think not so much of Corcoran Hall as of "Dean" Wilbur; those stories of the zoology department will strike a pleasant note not for the fun I had there but because it will recall Dr. Bartsch.

And so, I see school spirit in that fashion, the pleasant thoughts and gratefulness toward an institution not for its physical beings but what it stands for, the men who run it, and the men who teach us. And I'll bet the returning grads will run around not to take a peek at the old lab so much as with the hope that his old prof is there, and he can have another one of those chats, like he used to have: the kind which gave one hope, a little more courage, and a feeling of friendship.

STUDENTS interested in Pan-American affairs will have another opportunity to listen in on some intelligent discussions of the subject next week, December 8 and 9 to be exact, when the International Relations Clubs from 59 Eastern colleges convene here under the auspices of our own group. The convention should prove interesting at this time not only because George Washington has done much to foster interest in Pan-American relations but also be-

OUT IN THE WORLD

By GEORGE T. JARVIS

PEOPLE who worry about Uncle Sam's dollar—or their own—may not have noticed the news item about the frog who got a new eardrum.

Yes, frogs have eardrums. But this particular one had had his destroyed. Experimenters took skin from the back of another frog, according to the New York Academy of Science, and caused it to grow in the ear of the first frog. "Ologists" of various kinds are interested to know that this skin not only grew, but changed to good eardrum tissue.

We wish the Academy had looked into the thing about a quarter of an inch farther, letting us know what kind of thoughts dart around in the little brain between Mr. Frog's two eardrums.

Since Thursday will be Thanksgiving, one might ask, "Is he thankful for his new ear?"

While we're playing with fancy, suppose our frog had done some praying for that new eardrum. Do you think he would credit the fulfillment of his prayer to a Higher Power?

Perhaps he might instead do like the little boy on the roof.

THIS little boy thought it safe to play on the roof. But he slipped, and one scared little boy started sliding downward. With much earnestness, he yelled, "O Lord, save me! Save me!"

Then, just as he thought that surely he was a goner, he stopped sliding. "Never mind, Lord," he called. "I'm caught on a nail."

In this writer's opinion, our country has "caught on a nail." George Washington students have a rare chance to study that nail, and the country's efforts to climb back up the roof because—please pardon the metaphor—we are situated right at the "seat" of our Government, and can see the nail at close range. That is one thing to be thankful for.

But, more important, before helping ourselves to the cranberry sauce next Thursday, we are also going to give gratitude to the Supreme Power for keeping our Nation from sliding over the edge.

(And that's not Democratic propaganda—it's thanks-giving.)

A GROUP of students in Columbia University got in the news last week.

They protested emphatically against the new German Ambassador's giving a speech at the university—because he represents Hitler. They wrote President Butler about it.

And President Butler wrote back. He said in effect that nothing could be more unbecoming than for a university to fall into the same bigotted or "illiberal" ways so much in fashion in other parts of this old world.

And he refused to cancel Dr. Luther's speech.

A plant which has grown well in American soil is Tolerance. But it seems to be going to seed in too many places—so much so that a Jewish rabbi, a Catholic priest and a Protestant minister are being sent forth thru 39 American cities by the National Conference of Jews and Christians, to help combat an outbreak of intolerance.

In this struggle against narrowness, college is one place under the sun where encouragement should be given to hear all things, holding fast to that which is good.

cause the real congress of countries meets in Montevideo a day or two later.

The George Washington Club is to be congratulated for its energy and deserves the cooperation and attendance of all students who care to learn something about those important problems concerning the United States and Latin America.

STUDENTS who take 8 o'clock classes are considered among those possessing an endurance both admirable and unexplainable. But when a number of students ask a professor to hold a seminar at 8 o'clock in the morning and for no credits, what have we?

Dr. Garnett, assistant professor of philosophy, was petitioned by a number of students, since he has only a at 8 in the morning. He consented. And though no credits are given for the course, there were so many applications to enter the seminar that the professor had to limit the number of students since he has only a small room available.

A situation such as this, without question an unusual one in college these days, is worth a little reflection. Is it the depression that has made students more serious? Is it because the professor has an unusually large number of students really interested in philosophy that the seminar was formed? Does the professor possess that something which attracts students with a serious attitude toward studies? Perhaps it is a combination of all this. At any rate, it is something to think about.

Second Annual Homecoming Ball Will Be Major Social Event Of Season

Willard Is Scene Of Prom; Bain Made Chairman

Sidney's Mayflower Band, Emery Dougherty Directing, Will Play

George Washington's Homecoming Ball next Saturday night at the Willard promises to be the major social event of the year.

In addition to the regular two-dollar tickets, the committee in charge is advertising something entirely new in the way of stag tickets at $1 each. They may be obtained at Quigley's, the Willard Hotel, or the business office, 2031 G street northwest.

A free ticket will be given any person selling ten tickets. Under the supervision of Clara Critchfield, interfraternity council and panhellenic council delegates will act as distributors for their houses.

Sidney's Mayflower orchestra with Emery Dougherty conducting, will play for dancing in the grand ballroom of the hotel from 10 to 1. Wendell Bain, dance chairman, promises a lively time.

Just 30 minutes after the first dance members of the Kansas team, escorted by the Colonials, will parade the length of the ballroom to be greeted by visiting alumni students and faculty members. At intermission, Harriet Atwell, First Lady of the University, will present the cup to the fraternity adjudged to have the most attractively decorated house.

Exactly at midnight, Omicron Delta Kappa will tap six students and one faculty member. Presenting the highest award any student can be given for participating in extra curricular activities, the organization is often referred to as the "Phi Beta Kappa" of activity fraternities.

President Marvin and other notables will have boxes at the ball. Other boxes will be draped with banners of the fraternities and sororities. The committee in charge has requested that these colors should be placed the before in order to avoid confusion.

Announce Phi Pi Epsilon Pledges

Phi Pi Epsilon, foreign service sorority, announces the pledging of Elizabeth Bennette, Elizabeth Boice, Lillian Fogg, Elsie Francis, Winifred Freilof, Verna Mohagen, Esther Nelson, Honora Noyes, Verna Schult, Dorothy Smith, Elsie Spenny, Virginia Venable, Helen Wilkie, and Mary Louise Yauch. The pledge ceremony took place on Thursday evening, November 24, at the Kappa Delta House.

These women were extended bids because of their outstanding work in the study of foreign service, foreign commerce, political science or economics. To be eligible for membership, women students must also have at least 60 hours of credit and have maintained a 2.0 average.

The pledge ceremony climaxed an active rush period during which time the guests were entertained by the sorority at a tea, a speaker meeting, and a book review meeting.

Scholastic Society To Hold Initiation

Alpha Lambda Delta, honorary freshman scholarship sorority, will hold an initiation banquet at 7 o'clock tonight at the Admiral Club.

Betty Cochran, Anne Hill, and Hallie Mae Reed will be initiated, while Margaret Reed and Mrs. Mary Quick Bowman, faculty adviser, will become honorary members. Marjorie Schorn, president, will be in charge of the affair.

Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, guest of honor, will deliver an address. Vocal selections will be given by Mr. Ray Robinson, accompanied by Adele Meriam.

To be eligible for membership in Alpha Lambda Delta, a woman must attain a scholastic point index of at least 3.5 in her freshman year.

Spanish Club Fetes Mexican Diplomats

The Spanish Club had a "Fiesta" in Lambie House Friday night, November 24. Members, friends, and guests played bridge and were entertained by Spanish music. Among the guests of honor were the new Mexican military attaché, General Estrada, and the assistant military attaché, Lieutenant Calderon Puig.

Senor Mendoza Almenara, first secretary of the Peruvian Embassy, will address the club Wednesday, December 6. Plans are now being made for an elaborate Christmas celebration according to Spanish customs.

Women of Teaching Staff Hold Monthly Luncheons

Women members of the teaching staff of George Washington University are planning to have a luncheon on the first teaching Monday of every month at 12:15. The first of this series will be held December 4 at The Admiral, 1640 Rhode Island avenue northwest, at a price of 35 cents.

In making this announcement Miss Florence Mearns, assistant professor of mathematics, said that notice would be given in The Hatchet each month as to the place where the luncheon would be held, and that no other notices would be given to the women included in this group.

Doing a "Land-Office" Business

By CLARA CRITCHFIELD.

Members of the Homecoming Ball Committee and the office of the General Alumni Association have been busy during the past two weeks filling mail orders for tickets to the ball Saturday night and to the Kansas game. Marcelle Lehmeneger, secretary of the alumni association, and her assistant, Martha Buchanan, will reserve seats for the game in Lambie House all afternoon Friday, and Wendell Bain, chairman of the ball committee, will have both couple and stag tickets available at the ballroom door Saturday evening.

Kathryn Dille Weds Band Leader at Home Wedding

The wedding of Kathryn Dille and Louis Malkus took place Friday at the home of Ruth Warren. The bride was dressed in a travel suit, and wore a corsage of brown orchids. Miss Warren was her only attendant.

Miss Dille, a member of Chi Omega sorority, has been connected with The Hatchet and The Cherry Tree, and Mr. Malkus, a member of the faculty, is the leader of the University band. The couple went to New York to spend their honeymoon. They will live in Washington.

Bourke Floyd, '35, says

Fraternities to Hold Open House During Homecoming

The fraternities will hold radio dances or open house in their houses following the homecoming pep rally Friday night at Central High School, and after the Kansas game Saturday afternoon.

Fred Stevenson, chairman of the social calendar committee of the Student Council, states that fraternities and sororities need not apply for approval of their parties following the pep rally or the game.

Holiday Features Numerous Dances

Wednesday Night Promises Lively Entertainment; S. P. E. Gives Dance

With the approach of Thanksgiving the thoughts of many George Washington students turn to contemplation of festivity and relaxation. Many organizations are planning Thanksgiving dances, and Wednesday night bids fair to be one of celebration for fraternity men and their dates and friends. Sigma Alpha Epsilon will dance to the tune of Leon Brusiloff's orchestra at its house, while Rodney Hart's Vikings will provide the melodies for the Phi Sigma Kappas. At the Sigma Nu house, Knapp-Davis' band will be found furnishing tunes, and Delta Tau Delta will waltz and fox trot to the strains of Bob Lavender's music.

Interfraternity Council Holds Tea Dance

Syncopeated rhythm by the popular LeGrande orchestra will be featured at a Thanksgiving tea dance sponsored by the Interfraternity Council, which will be held at the Acacia house Thursday afternoon from 4 to 7. Subscription will be $1 per couple.

Thursday night Sigma Chi will celebrate the holiday with a dance at the house. LeGrande's orchestra will deliver the music.

To look back into last week's functions—the Sigma Phi Epsilons held their Thanksgiving dance Saturday night, November 25, at the chapter house.

CIGARETTES are made of tobacco, wrapped in paper, and they may look alike; but that doesn't mean that they are alike.

Chesterfield Cigarettes are not like other cigarettes. The tobacco is not like the tobacco used in other cigarettes. It is mild, ripe—not harsh, or strong.

Then again, Chesterfields taste better. They are seasoned in the right way with the right kind of Turkish Tobacco. There is nothing flat or tasteless about them.

Four Outstanding Colonials Play Last Grid Game Saturday

Hickman, Stewart, Carlin, F. Parrish Terminate Careers

Men of Class of '34 Have Contributed Much to Success of Colonials

By ROBERT HERZOG
Joy, festivity, and the spirit of celebration will be uppermost in the hearts of the crowd when the Jayhawkers of Kansas University meet the Colonials in the Homecoming Day attraction, but for a few of the Pilemen the game will sound the death knell of college competition.

Comparable only to the loss last year of 10 lettermen, including the nucleus of the famed freshmen of '29 aggregation, is the loss this year of such stellar performers as Stewart, Hickman, F. Parrish, and Carlin. Graduation annually reaps a harvest over the world's gridirons, and this year is no exception for George Washington.

In Hickman and Stewart, the team loses a pair of guards of great proportions, though they play a vastly different type of game. Zuzu, with a remarkable nose for diagnosing plays, develops flashiness and color in piling up enemy interference and tackling feet-runners. Boyd goes in for a less spectacular brand of ball. Hickman copes with heavier opposition by varying his tactics, and shines on the offense when he is called upon to pull out of the line and block an enemy end.

Finis Parrish, a powerhouse in the blocking back position, is the type of man that lends to the making of a championship aggregation. Finis, we are sorry to confide, will never break into an all-American roll call. On a few occasions, he has rounded enemy tacklers for long gains; but his is not the colorful, glamorous, sporadic game.

Parrish is unquestionably the hardest worker on the squad. He is ex-

SPORT AXE

By ROBERT HERZOG
EVERY year about this time the nation's sports writers are called upon to stand up for a few men who go through a football season or in many cases a career unglorified. It is the privilege of this column to boldly place the names of Boyd Hickman and Finis Parrish on the scrolls of immortal George Washingtonians. For three seasons these two lads have been plugging away without ever having been named on all-this or all-that teams. With the season at its close, it is only fitting that these boys be given a vote of appreciation in recognition for their splendid displays of sportsmanship, capability, and willingness.

Men of the Hickman-Parrish type go to make up winning teams. Ever reliable and never flashing into sporadic brilliance for the sake of advancing their own ends, they have held team play and consistent determination upmost. In timely comment we might add that Finis, for the first time in three years, missed practice on account of injuries; and Hickman has lost no time at all. Hickman's fine play has been overlooked by The Hatchet, too; this publication has never before graced its pages with Hick's photographic countenance.

The schedule of next year's eleven is in the making. We hear that Carnegie Tech and Colgate are definitely out. There is one opening on the Navy list. Tulsa, Oklahoma, North Dakota, and possibly Temple, are the only definite listings to date. The Quigley-quarterbacks can't quite see the point of playing Tulsa, and they hardly recommend a few big Easterners. Does our opinion mean anything to the Athletic Department?

If the football team can walk onto the field Saturday they'll play a good game. But with the incessant scrimmaging and hard work that the coaches have put the boys through during the past week (and during past weeks) it seems rather dubious that the lads will be able to stand the bus ride out to the ball park. They haven't anything on Kansas, though—the Jayhawkers play Missouri on Thanksgiving Day and play here on Saturday.

And speaking of the athletic department—a local daily reports that a Washington university will soon have a gym. We hope it's a G. W., and a swell coliseum would add greatly to our minor sports. Maryland has advanced its athletic department tremendously by the development of boxing and basketball. A combine of a good gym and a boxing team would add another drawing card to the University curricula.

Ruley (basketball player) comes to G. W. with an all-A transcript. . . . Dees, one of K. U.'s stellar performers, never played football before his entrance into the university. . . . Woodrow Logan of the K. U. team is a baby brother of the G. W. trainer.

Nig McCarver autographed footballs for the youngsters at a local department store on Saturday—quite a temptation for young mothers, eh, what? . . . Zuzu refereed an amateur contest in Alexandria Sunday. . . . and Nig is a busy man, for we learn he is coaching a semi-pro eleven on the side.

Kansas Game Must Attract 11,000 Fans To Set New Mark

Average Attendance at Colonial Games Is 1,500 Persons Less Than in 1932

If George Washington is to break its own record for season grid attendance in Washington set last year, the Colonials must draw around 11,000 fans Saturday. In addition to setting a new mark for total attendance here last season, Pilemen's team set a new local game mark for attendance at a single game when 26,000 fans were clicked through the turnstiles at the Alabama contest. Another record attained by G. W. in 1932 was that of having the largest percentage of increase in attendance over the previous year of any team in the Nation, according to Associated Press statistics.

In seven home games to date the Colonials have drawn some 88,000 fans to their games in comparison to 92,500 fans attracted to the same number of contests last season. Having one more game listed at home than last year, G. W. should break its seasons total record, although the number of attendants per game averages about 1,500 less than in 1932.

The Tennessee game November 4, attracted some 26,000 patrons to Griffith Stadium, slightly less than the Alabama contest of last year, according to unofficial figures. The Colonials have failed to draw as many as 15,000 in any other game this season, a mark that was passed four times last year.

If the Homecoming game of last Thanksgiving is any criterion, the Kansas game Saturday should attract at least the necessary 11,000 to put the total over that of 1932. The Oklahoma Sooners and G. W. played to a 7-7 tie before 18,000 spectators on Turkey Day in Griffith Stadium.

Attendance figures for 1933. Catawba, 7,000; Clemson, 10,000; Auburn, 13,000; West Virginia Wesleyan, 12,000; Tennessee, 25,000; Washington and Jefferson, 7,000; Tulsa, 9,000. Total, 88,000.

Two Famed Athletes On Jayhawk Eleven

Listed among the stalwart Jayhawker visitors are two athletes who have gained fame for athletic prowess on fields far removed from football—Peter Mehlinger and Elyn Dees.

Mehlinger, a great tackle who was listed by Notre Dame last season on its all-opponent eleven along with the famous Ernie Nevers of Southern California, was crowned king of the world's light-heavyweight wrestlers at the Olympic games last year. He now weighs 191 pounds, is 6 feet tall, and has been continuing his great grid work of last season.

Dees holds the national interscholastic 12-pound shot put record, which he won at Kansas three years ago when he heaved the lead apple 58 feet 10 inches. Although he never played football before arriving at Kansas three years ago, he is the general utility man, capable of playing a fine game at guard or tackle and is sure to see service against the Colonials.

never played football before his entrance into the university. . . . Woodrow Logan of the K. U. team is a baby brother of the G. W. trainer.

Nicknames Popular Among Grid Satellites

Davenport Leads Long List With Six 'Titles'

What's in a name? Whether it was Shakespeare, "Chic" Sale, Dickens or Sam Hellman that originated the oft-repeated maxim, the old saying is still holding true. Just how true it is one may discover after listening to "a bunch of the boys," the varsity football squad, talking among themselves.

Fullback "Crash" Bomba
Don Bomba, star fullback, is usually called "Crash" by his teammates. He gets the name from the character in the comic strip, "Freckles." It may mean nothing to the general public, but let some local gridder yell "Crash!" and Bomba perks up his head at once. Ed Clark, giant tackle, finds distinction in the name "Blondy." Most of the boys find delight in the descriptive title "Swede" Clark, football's gift to the females.

Wayne Davenport is one man on the squad who answers to at least a half dozen of these nicknames. Best known are "Black Mare," "Easy Chair," and "Bug-Eye." Just where he picked up the name "Black Mare" no one is certain, but several men on the squad began calling him "Easy Chair" because of his fondness for parking himself in any large, soft chair. The "Bug-Eye" part came when it was noticed that when he was just about to catch a pass on the football field, his eyes took on that glassy stare that gave "Moon Mullins" his start to fame. Harry Deming comes running when any of the boys happen to call "Crisco." Just why, it has never been known.

"Sorority Sam" Dooze
Dooze and Stewart are two more members of the squad that answer to any number of different names. Dooze has been lovingly called "Dooze," "Deuce," "Showboat," "Sorority Sam," and "Barrymore." Whew! Stewart is probably best known as "Zuzu." However, most of the boys living at the Varsity House had rather call him "Cue-Ball." Why? Don't ask me! Then, too, he is known to the public as "The man with the cute little dog."

All of his friends call Hollis Harrison "Country Boy." He picked up the name during the Christmas holidays last year, due to a slight misunderstanding at the Union Station, but for further particulars, it is best to ask "Country Boy." Sidney Kolker is usually called "Butch." You can find him in any big crowd, signing autographs for the ladies, and quite aptly signing, "The price of fame!"

Morrison's Nickname Obvious.
Now for some rather unusual names. George Laas has always been called "Pork Chops," or "The Glendale Flash." Jack Morrison loves to be called "Shi-foot." (That's an easy one.) Bill Wright is known as "Two-Gun." Yes, he lives on a ranch. Flatschick is "Polokai," of movie fame. Some call him "Schnozzle." Leemans is called "Tuffy," "Lippy," and "Sunion." If you want to be counted among Hank Strayer's close friends, call him "Hog-Eye." He glories in that name, and none but his special pals are permitted the use of the nickname. One Wray has a liking for the title "The Watermelon King." He is especially fond of the melons if they are warm, so he says.

Original Jayhawker Quarterback Honor Guest on Saturday

Paul Hudson, '93, to Meet Present Kansas General at Half

The Kansas team won't be in the enemy's country entirely when it battles the Colonials at Griffith Stadium next Saturday afternoon. Out there in the stands across the field, the Jayhawkers will have at least one staunch supporter to spur them on.

He's Paul Hudson '93, now associate editor of the Washington Post, but once quarterback of the first football team Kansas ever had.

The Greeters Club had planned a ceremony at the half in remembrance of Mr. Hudson's former gridiron prowess. Chairman Walter Rhinehart will escort Hudson from his box in the stands to the center of the field to be presented to the Kansas field general—either Fred Harris or John Manning. Now what the quarterback of years ago will say to the quarterback of today, no one knows. But we'll bet that thereafter, the Colonials will need to keep both eyes on the Jayhawkers.

Mr. Hudson is an old hand at the newspaper game, having edited and published the Mexican Herald in Mexico City for 20 years before coming to Washington three years ago for his present assignment. But his interest in football dates back still farther.

In 1890 he helped to organize the first Kansas football team. Becoming its quarterback, he starred in that position for four years.

During that time the gridiron warrior had many exciting encounters with Mid-Western teams, among them the Haskell Indians, Baldwin University, and Washburn College in Topeka. But his most lively tangle, and one that he'll never forget, was a game with the Kansas City Y. M. C. A., November 26, 1890.

This so-called Y. M. C. A. team was made up of ex-Yale, Harvard, and other college football stars then resident in Kansas City. Outweighed by 50 pounds to the man, the Jayhawkers needed all their superior teamwork to hold their own in a struggle that, according to Mr. Hudson, was classic indeed.

Mr. Hudson is hoping to see another classic next Saturday. But he won't predict the outcome of the game.

Tulsa Among Foes Scheduled for 1934

The way things are lining up in the athletic department, it is evident that Tulsa, Oklahoma, and North Dakota will meet the Colonials during the 1934 season. A semi-official announcement states that negotiations are being conducted with the Warner-coached Temple eleven for a home game. Information regarding the other contests is extremely scarce and inaccurate.

Despite much publicized criticism and editorial comment doubting the value of a contest with Tulsa, the Oil-ers appear for the fifth consecutive year on the Buff and Blue schedule. Tentative arrangements call for a third Colonial invasion of the Oklahoma metropolis. Oklahoma University reappears as a Hatchette opponent after a year's absence.

Possibilities of a three-year contract with Vanderbilt as the Pilemen's Southern opponent looms as other prospects fall from the Farrington file. Washington and Lee was scheduled to meet the Colonials in a return bout next season, but to date no mention has been made of this contest.

S. P. E. Defeats Sigma Nu To Retain Interfrat Court Title

Russell (Sigma Nu)	Guard	Kemp (P. E. K.)
Newland (T. U. O.)	Guard	Sherrill (S. P. E.)

By EVERETT WOODWARD.

Being obliged to choose a mythical line-up to comprise the All-Interfraternity basketball team, the writer delved into the records, memories of past games, and emerged with the above given selections. Fortunately choices for the first team were made easier than usual because of the standout performances given by the players. In contrast to previous years, however, with the exception of the men chosen for the first quint, the crop of polished basket ball men was smaller than usual.

Smith, S. P. E., and Burke, S. A. E., were head and shoulders above the rest of the field at their positions. Both dead shots under the baskets and equally adept at "potting," they played important roles in each of their team's games. Burke was a standout on an otherwise weak team. In the Delta game, won by 1 point, he scored all of the goals made by his team, while in the disputed crucial game with Sigma Nu, his play was dominant, only the time-keeper's whistle preventing him from scoring an upset with a last-minute basket just a second too late to be legal.

While Burke was dominant at "money playing," Ruley, at center for S. P. E., established himself easily as the outstanding player of the series. In every game he outplayed his opponent with ease and furnished the deciding force for his team's attack both with his own shots and position play for his teammates. A varsity berth is surely in the making for this tall, raw-boned center.

At the guard positions Russell, Sigma Nu, and Newland, T. U. O., both were of the rotating position type. On defense each was capable of breaking up his opponent's passing and in turn directed his team's attack on the offense. At scoring Russell featured with pot shots while Newland was more at home under the basket.

On the first team each of the players are "natural" players and equal to different types of game. They have proved their mettle under fire and have been important cogs in the play of their respective teams, and, most of all, have been consistent performers. For the above reasons they have been selected.

For the acknowledgment of the non-linemen players who perform but taste not of the light's acclaim, a second team has been selected. These men, while not in the class of the first team by comparison of performance, would rate high in standard play.

A resume of the past series shows that: The closest game was the 13-12 decision won by S. A. E. from D. T. D.; the most exciting, the disputed 22-21 (28-22) game won by Sigma Nu from S. A. E.; the most one-sided, S. P. E.'s 34-2 from T. D. X., and the greatest individual performance in scoring, Walsh, D. T. D., scoring 27 of his team's points in winning from S. X. The final standings in each league are identically the same.

Colonials to Face Vastly Improved Kansas Eleven at Stadium Saturday

later. The Missouri-Kansas battle is one of those traditional affairs which is anybody's game from the start, although Missouri is unusually weak this year.

Will Take to the Air Early

After failing to score in five successive games, the Kansans suddenly began to click and showed an unusually strong aerial game which was directly responsible for its scores in the Iowa State encounter. According to present reports from Kansas, Lindsay's boys will take to the air early in the G. W. game. They have been drilling on this phase of their attack daily and will undoubtedly test the Colonials' pass defense thoroughly.

The heaving on Kansas aerials is done by John Manning, 165-pound quarterback, whose passing is rated among the best in the Big Six. Manning has proven a menace to every team on the K. U. list this campaign with his accurate heaves, and comprises a big part of the Jayhawk attack.

Casini Is Pass Receiver

Ernest Casini, veteran end, is on the receiving end of Manning's tosses and this pair may show Washington fans the brightest bit of aerial work seen here all year. A 35-yard toss from Manning to Casini tallied the Crimson and Blue's first score against Iowa State and began a combined running and passing attack that the Iowans could not combat.

One of Lindsay's other backfield standouts is Ray Dumm, 195-pound halfback, who crashes the line with all the fury of an enraged bull. Dumm, besides cracking the line for sizable gains, is a fine defensive back and throws his weight into a tackle in a manner which bodes no good for Pixlee's ball toters.

Another 195-pounder of no little ability is Ormand Beach, veteran fullback. Prominently mentioned for all Conference honors two years ago, Beach has played an even larger part in Kansas' success this year. His defensive play has no equal in the mid-west section, while his blocking also is in a class by itself. Injured in the first game of last year, Beach was kept on the sidelines for the rest of the season, but came back this year with even better form than he displayed in 1931.

Capital City fans will also see several other crack backs in action. Ole Nesmith, a fine ball carrier; Johnny Peterson, Beach's understudy; Ed Hall, midline half, and Fred Harris, sophomore, whose punting has been consistently good all season, have all flashed into the limelight at times this year and will be called into action by Lindsay.

Mehring Is Line Star

The Kansans' other outstanding lineman, along with Casini, is Pete Mehninger, 205-pound tackle, whose play against Notre Dame drew the united praise of that team last year. A tower of strength on defense, Mehninger also plays a big part in K. U.'s offensive and unquestionably will be mentioned for Big Six honors this season.

Pixlee gave his boys their first rest of the campaign this week, practice not being called until Wednesday. Injuries have cut the Colonial squad to its smallest size of the year, but the regulars came through the Tulsa game in good shape and should be in A. No. 1 condition Saturday.

Changes in G. W. Backfield

Several changes in posts in the backfield were made early last week and will be kept for the starting line-up this week. Leemans has been switched to the blocking back position, Doose from fullback to chief running back, while Plotnicki and Bomba retain their quarterback and fullback jobs.

Powerful Offense Establishes Early Lead for Victors

Runners-up Display Lack of Training in Passing and Team Work

By EVERETT WOODWARD

Sigma Phi Epsilon, defending champion, retained its basketball laurels by defeating Sigma Nu, League B finalist, 26-22, and so winning the interfraternity championship for the second successive year.

Combining a snappy attack with a moderate defense, Sig Ep played as a smooth unit and was always in the lead by a five-point average. Sigma Nu, when in possession of the ball, did not seem to know what to do with it, and a slow process of bringing the ball in resulted in Sig Ep recovering. The few Sigma Nu shots under the basket resulted usually from quick steals from the opposition rather than from passing plays.

Waller sank a foul for the first score of the game, but Weingartner immediately after placed Sig Ep ahead with a side court run and a one-hand shot. Ruley and Smith then combined baskets to run up an 11-point margin at the quarter. Sigma Nu braced at this point to hold Sig Ep to a single goal and foul while running up eight points on goals by Antignat and Allen.

Last Half Close

Play in the third period was about even, but with Sig Ep still retaining a five-point margin. Zip was infused into the game at this time and play became more spirited. Gleason scored first with a cord shot and Smith came through on a block by Ruley to run up a higher advantage. Realizing that time was advancing against them, the Sigma Nus became desperate and their play was much better. Granny Allen and Morse Allen both scored on identical back court steals from their men and raised hopes for a last-minute charge. Recovery had been too slow, however, and a four-point margin was still showing as the whistle sounded.

Ruley led the scoring with 12 points and was the backbone of the Sig Ep attack. The smooth play of the winners, however, was due to their functioning as a unit and all five men combined to work the ball into a scoring position. Granny Allen's eight points was high for the Sigma Nus, who did not seem to play as well as in previous games. The opposition, perhaps, may have been a determining feature.

Hockey Triple Tie Play-off Will Take Place Tomorrow

Junior-Seniors Are Outplayed but Women's Hockey Games Result in Tie

To play off the triple tie resulting from the inter-class hockey matches last week, a game has been scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at 1 p. m. between the freshmen and the junior-senior team, whose game last week resulted in a score of 0-0, although the freshmen outplayed the junior-seniors.

The outstanding players of the class teams have been chosen for the odd and even teams which will play Friday, December 1, at 2:30 p. m., on the Ellipse as part of the Homecoming program.

The even players are Mary Hatke, Henrietta Hobson, Patsy Jones, Marjorie Sehorn, Ruth Young, Catherine Crane, Mary Lee Watkins, Louise Cox and Ruth Critchfield.

The odd team players are Mary Warner, Margaret Graves, Katherine Black, Mary Haley, Christine Herman, Lorraine Lincoln, Carol Wanner, Constance Levenson, Jennie Garner, Jane Sheets, Camille Jacob, Leila Holley, Blanche Horner, and Olivia Nixon.

Archery Won by Buntens; Strong Takes Second Place

Scoring 212 points, Helen Buntens won the Sports Week advanced archery tournament by a big margin. Margaret Strong took second place with a score of 151. The match included the shooting of 24 arrows at 30 yards and 24 arrows at 40 yards.

The beginners' tournament, in which each contestant shot 36 arrows at 30 yards, was won by Natalie Hicks with a score of 107 points.

The final archery match of the season is scheduled for Friday, December 1, at 2:30 p. m., on the Monument grounds. Two picked teams will compete.

Frosh Women Unite On Panhel Council

Freshman Panhellenic Council was organized last Tuesday, November 21, by a committee of the Senior Panhellenic Council composed of Harriet Atwell, Mary Louise Yauch, and Louise Linkins. In accordance with the rotating system of officers, Carol Palmer, Chi Omega, is president; Cathryn Kaylor, Delta Zeta, is secretary; and Jane Edmonston, Kappa Delta, treasurer.

The council will discuss rushing and submit their conclusions to the Senior Panhellenic Council to aid them in formulating a rushing system for next year. They also plan to sponsor some kind of social function for all sorority pledges.

Meetings will be held every other Tuesday at noon. The next meeting will be Tuesday, December 5.

Odd-Even Matches End Fall Program

With the final odd-even games in the major sports, women's athletics will end their fall season Friday afternoon, December 1, adding a new event to the Homecoming program.

Following a procession to the fields in buses and cars, the games will begin at 2:30. The odd-even hockey game and an individual archery tournament will take place on the Ellipse, while the odd-even soccer game and tennis finals will be played on the Monument grounds.

Members of the odd teams have been chosen from classes graduating in '35 and '37. The even teams are composed of students graduating in '34 and '36. From these teams will be chosen the honorary varsity of each sport. Members of these varsity teams will be awarded major or minor letters at the banquet of the Women's Athletic Association December 6.

Following the Homecoming games, players and spectators are invited to attend the tea which will be held by Delphi in the Lambie House.

Dean Henry Grattan Doyle Attends School Convention

Henry Grattan Doyle, dean of the Junior College, will attend the annual convention of the Middle States Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools next Friday and Saturday at Atlantic City.

Other members of the George Washington faculty who will attend are Harold Griffith Sutton, DeWitt Clinton Croissant, and Merle Irving Protzman.

Sororities Vie For Volley Ball Honors

Alpha Delta Pi, Sigma Kappa, and Phi Sigma Sigma Sororities Last Week's Victors

Alpha Delta Pi defeated the Colonial Campus Club 15-1, 15-3; Sigma Kappa won from Phi Delta, 15-13, 15-7; and Phi Sigma Sigma scored 15-13, 15-13, to defeat Delta Zeta in the intramural volleyball games played last week. Alpha Epsilon Phi lost to Phi Delta and Phi Beta Phi lost to Zeta Tau Alpha by default.

As a result of these games, Kappa Kappa Gamma stands at the head of League I, with Alpha Delta Theta second. In League II, Alpha Delta Pi leads, while Phi Sigma Sigma and Kappa Delta are tied for second place. Sigma Kappa is leading League III, followed by Phi Delta in second place.

Two games will be played tonight at 7 o'clock in the University gymnasium—Delta Zeta vs. the Colonial Campus Club, and Alpha Delta Pi vs. Phi Sigma Sigma. This will leave three intra-league games to be played. The winning teams of each league will compete for the championship.

GRID ACES PLAY FINAL ENCOUNTER AGAINST KANSAS

tremely conscientious, and is never satisfied with his own game, always displaying willingness to pick up another pointer. Possessing terrific drive in his legs he is a deadly blocker, and an extremely sure tackler.

Grid followers have had but a little opportunity to evaluate Lee Carlin this year. In 1930 he, with the remainder of the '29 frosh, began the long uphill grind to Colonial supremacy. Lee played through a glorious year in 1931 along with Joe Carter and Johnny Fenlon. In the early stages of last season Carlin was forced out of the game with a broken collarbone, and remained on the sidelines during the entire schedule, and was eligible for another year of collegiate competition.

Again this season, with apparently a productive year ahead, Carlin was overrun by the bugaboo of football—injury. Once more, the youth that had been elected captain of his team without having played in one contest during the preceding season, watched his teammates rampage to victory. In passing, we must remind the underclassmen that Lee Carlin was a football hero in the autumns of 1930 and '31.

Deadline for Cherry Tree Photographs Set at December 15th by Editors

Organizations Desiring to Compete in Hall of Fame and Beauty Contests Must Have Photographs of 85% of Membership Submitted at That Time

Ralph Given, photographic manager of the Cherry Tree, calls attention to the fact that those organizations wishing to compete in the Hall of Fame and Beauty contests must have 85 per cent of their membership photographed by December 15. Casson, the official photographer, has made arrangements to keep open over the Thanksgiving holiday because of the large number of requests for appointments at that time, according to Given.

"I might suggest, too, that those students who belong to a number of organizations should take a picture that will fit with all of them. This will eliminate the expense of taking two pictures," Given said.

Asked whether or not photographs would play a large part in the contents of The Cherry Tree this year, Given said that photographs "of all descriptions and in large numbers will be seen as never before." The board of editors agree that photographs hold a stronger appeal to the graduate in after years, and have planned upon assembling a book that will appeal both now and later to graduates and undergraduates alike.

17 Answer Hatchet Business Staff Call

Seventeen candidates answered advertising in last week's Hatchet for try-outs on the business staff, Lester M. Gates, business manager, states. There are a number of positions still open in the stenographic, sales, and survey departments.

Applications should be made at the publications office, 2016 H street, from 9 a. m. 'til 5 p. m. on week days, and from 9 a. m. 'til 1 p. m. on Saturdays. Ross P. Strout, assistant to the advertising manager, will head the art department; Richard C. Murphy, another assistant will be in charge of copy writers; and Edna Schofield, a third assistant, will head the office staff.

The candidates will receive appointments to assistantships on the basis of work done during the next few weeks in the try-outs.

Math Club to Honor Dr. Arnold Dresden

Dr. Arnold Dresden, professor of mathematics and head of that department at Swarthmore College, will address the Mathematics Club at its banquet at the Cosmos Club, Friday, December 8, at 7:15 p. m. Dr. Dresden's subject will be "The Objects and Activities of the Mathematical Association of America."

Dr. Dresden, an outstanding teacher of mathematics and well known as the author of two mathematical textbooks, was formerly a member of the University of Wisconsin faculty. He is coming to Washington to address the local section of the Mathematical Association of America on "The General Aspects of the Calculus of Variation."

Darling" feature from last year's show, "Oh Say! Can't You See?" Craig Morris, Leonard Stevens, and Katherine Kramer, as well as a "little chorus" under the direction of Christine Spigul, will take part. The two selected sororities, Alpha Delta Pi and Chi Omega, will offer a playlet and a chorus, respectively.

The combined glee clubs will sing a group of the songs that have brought them renown. Another musical feature will be given by the Troubadour Trio, consisting of "Scotty" Giffen, Margaret Gilligan, and Annabelle McCullough. Kappa Sigma fraternity men will sing a new school song written by Eugene Sweeney, composer of the Buff and Blue.

Short talks by Coach Fixlee and Captain Lee Carlin will precede a ten-minute film of the football team at Camp Letts and in the Tennessee game. School songs and yells will be coached from the audience by the cheerleaders, with the assistance of the band and the men's and women's glee clubs. Words will be thrown on a movie screen.

Awards to Be Presented at Women's Athletic Banquet

The fall banquet of the women's athletic association will be held Wednesday, December 6, at 7 p. m. at the Admiral, 1640 Rhode Island avenue. At the banquet, letters will be awarded to the outstanding players in each of the fall sports, and members of the winning class teams will receive numerals. Cups will be presented to the winners of the fall golf and tennis tournaments.

Members of the association may obtain tickets to the banquet for $1 from managers of the sports in which they participated.

First Place Goes To Junior Team In Soccer Meet

Seniors, Sophomores Tie for Second; Odd, Even Teams Chosen

Outplaying their opponents in every game, the juniors won the soccer championship in the inter-class games last week. The seniors and sophomores tied for second place, and the freshmen came last with no wins.

Members of the odd and even teams have been chosen from the class teams which competed in sports week. The even team players are Annabelle McCullough, Caroline McMillan, Dora Gwinn, Winifred Rose, Edith Grosvenor, Elizabeth Middlemas, Louise Thomas, Mary Howard, Muriel Lewis, Mary Louise Yauch, Jean Cristie, Joanne Darby, Miriam Casteel, Clara Critchfield, Maxine Farley, Rhoda Blase, and Mary Ferry.

Members of the odd team are Alicia Mooney, Mildred Lovelace, Cecilia Couch, Jane Harrison, Janet Stultz, Alice Buell, Eleanor Lyle, Theda Hagena, Virginia Pope, Frances Thompson, Catherine Wheeler, Reba Barton, Kathleen Cummings, Virginia Lawrence, Gretchen Felker, Irma Johnson, and Mary Blasdall.

The two teams will compete Friday afternoon at 2:30 at the Monument grounds.

Shipp Wins Annual Fall Golf Tourney

By a score of 4 up and 3 to go, Betty Shipp triumphed over Virginia Dillman in the final match of the women's fall golf tournament played last Wednesday. Taking the advantage at the beginning, the winner easily outplayed her opponent, who was last year's runner-up, to place for the first time in a University tournament.

As champion, Betty Shipp will receive the cup offered this year for the first time by the Women's Athletic Association to the winner of the fall golf tournament. Another cup given to the winner of the spring tournament was won last spring by Virginia Pope, golf manager.

Honorary Varsity Group to Play Alumnae Soccer Team

A novelty in women's athletics is being planned for Sunday morning, December 3, at 10:30, when the honorary varsity soccer team will play a team of alumnae.

Soccer has been an institution here only since 1929, but a complete team of alumnae has been made up for the game; the players are Kay McCallum, Louise Hildebrandt, Grace Haley, Lou James, Jane Hill, Janice Hyatt, Jean Sandridge, Rae Miller, Hilda Hayes, Emera Johnson, Neva Ewing, Sally Casteel, Helen Hall, and Claudia Kyle. The honorary varsity will not be definitely chosen until after the odd-even game next Friday. The alumnae, although out of practice, are considered by Helen Lawrence, soccer coach, to have the advantage in superior ability. It is expected, therefore, that the game will be a close one.

San Franciscans Watching Our Progress From Afar

Chairman of the Homecoming
Committee for 1933.

Dear Sir:
The George Washington University Alumni Club of San Francisco and all of its 52 members assembled at a luncheon meeting at San Francisco on Wednesday, November 22, 1933, send this greeting to The George Washington University, to Dr. Marvin, our guest of last year, to the Homecoming Committee, and to the faculty and students of the University, and wish for you a most successful Homecoming for this year.

From this point on the Pacific Coast where the few from our Alma Mater are gathered together, representing a cross-section of all departments of the University, we watch the progress of the University with great interest, not only from the scholastic but also from

Milwaukee Club Yearns For Magic Carpet to City

Dr. Daniel Borden, President,
General Alumni Association, etc.

Dear Dr. Borden:

The members of our Alumni Club would be most happy if they could secure possession of the magic carpet and be transported to Washington to join in the reunion and festivity of the approaching Homecoming.

This feeling of our club, we are sure, is that of each of the 80 or 90 graduates and former students of the George Washington University now residing in Wisconsin. But since no magic carpet is at hand, we will use the magic of a "Tingmissartog" (with apologies to our great flier) to send our loving and hearty greetings to our fellow members of the General Alumni Association in Washington assembled.

We add an invitation to any George Washington University graduates who at any time may be in or near Milwaukee (which is but 80 miles from Chicago), to call at the address below.

Marvin's Statement Dispels Doubts On Dramatics Situation

Prexy Wants Productions to Measure Up to Highest Standards

To avoid any further misunderstanding that may have arisen as to his position concerning dramatic activities on campus, President Marvin, before a special meeting of Troubadour, Cue and Curtain, and Drama Appreciation Club members, last Thursday said:

"I am heartily in sympathy with any conscientious effort any organization wants to undertake provided that work is acceptable to the University . . . I want no misunderstanding. All of you have my backing, and that on a par . . . I feel free to offer adverse criticism to any one organization as to another. I will feel just as free in offering praise.

"You will have my backing 100 per cent so far as the public is concerned."

This special meeting, called by President Marvin, was held to clarify the president's stand on the dramatic question. Doubt as to how he felt about the Cue and Curtain Club and the Troubadours had resulted from a news article published last week in one of the local papers which according to Dr. Marvin, misrepresented the administration's attitude toward the campus dramatic situation.

Single Press Agent Suggested that a campus organization representative had given the news to the local paper which apparently misinterpreted it.

The suggestion was made, then, that perhaps further difficulty in sending news to local papers might be remedied by having one person handle theatrical news for all three groups. This could be done, Dr. Marvin said, either through the University news service, under Miss Marcelle Le Menager, or through a student.

Productions this year will continue much as they have in the past, according to Dr. Marvin. The president added that the only thing he asked was that the thespians keep their plays on the same high level that other departments maintain.

"I would like to see the highest type of production, a higher type of appreciation group, on the high plane of the other phases of University work," he said. "I say this because I believe . . . these activities are all a part of the educational program. All I ask is that these groups keep their work on a plane so that we cannot be criticized for it."

Defines Purposes

Dr. Marvin cleared all questions that may have arisen in the recent dramatic crisis by outlining the purpose of the three organizations. He stated that Troubadours grew "out of a spirit of good fun and out of students interested in light hearted comedy." He explained that though he had been quoted as being opposed to Troubadours this was not true. It was not the organization or its continued existence he disapproved but he "was not in sympathy with the Troubadour productions of the last two years."

The president added that this was no new idea with him in as much as he had expressed the same opinion to Director Dan Beattie last year and had even offered two or three suggestions for carrying on the work.

No One in Competition

Speaking of Cue and Curtain, Dr. Marvin complimented Director Constance Connor Brown for her fine work and said that thus far he had no complaints to make with that organization. He saw their value here in the University and could "conceive the place for such an organization (as Troubadours), too."

The Drama Appreciation Club, the president considers as just that—group meeting primarily for the appreciation of the theatre and its works. It was not infringing upon the work of either of the other organizations and was to be maintained with that principle in mind.

"No one of you is in competition with the other," he said, "and I do not want any misunderstanding or lack of appreciation of one group for the other."

STUDENTS VISIT EXHIBIT

The Art Appreciation Club will visit the Corcoran Art Gallery today to see the Gari Melcher collection now on view there. Members, as well as all other students who may be interested in attending, are to assemble at Lamble House at noon.

This will be the first of a planned series of conducted tours.

Delts and A. D. Pi's Prepare for Rally

B. S. U. Sponsors Annual Convention

The 1933 Baptist student convention of Maryland and the District of Columbia was held Thursday, Friday and Saturday at the First Baptist Church under the joint sponsorship of the State Baptist Student Union and the Department of Southern Baptist Student Work.

Over 200 students attended the banquet, given annually by the Woman's Missionary Association of the District of Columbia, Friday at 7:30 p. m. Miss Sybil Brane, of Nashville, Tenn., and Mr. Richard Holland, of Philadelphia, were speakers. Mrs. Dewey Moore, college counsellor of the Woman's Missionary Association, was toastmistress.

Dr. G. G. Johnson, pastor of the National Baptist Memorial Church, was the principal speaker at the convention session held Saturday afternoon. At the Saturday evening session, Dr. H. A. Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Charlottesville, Va., and Dr. R. W. Weaver, professor of philosophy at American University, spoke.

Speakers' Congress To Discuss N. R. A.

Henry Ford and his opposition to the efforts of the Roosevelt Administration to "regimentize" industry, will be the subject for discussion at the next meeting of the Speakers' Congress which will be held in W-15, Wednesday afternoon at 1:30. The discussion is formally entitled, "Shall Henry Ford be Made to Conform to the N. R. A.?"

The discussion on this question follows logically the talk given by Prof. Don Sherbondy, debate coach at American University, at the meeting of the congress on Wednesday, November 22. His remarks covered the activities of President Roosevelt and the National Recovery Administration. He highly recommended the achievements of the present government.

Following the meeting, an informal tea was held. Elizabeth Sherrier, secretary of the Speakers' Congress, poured.

Cast Changes Made By Cue and Curtain

Leonard Stevens and Hamilton Colt Receive Roles in "Louder, Please"

Two last-minute changes have been made in the cast of Cue and Curtain's first production, "Louder, Please," which will be presented at Wardman Park Theater, Thursday and Friday, December 7 and 8.

Leonard Stevens, popular favorite with campus audiences for the past several years, will replace Bob Allen in the role of Garrett, a Broadway actor, while Hamilton Colt, a newcomer to Cue and Curtain, will take over the role formerly held by Joseph Sizoo. Both of these men have stepped into the parts admirably, says Constance Connor Brown, director, despite the fact that the rest of the cast has had almost five weeks more of rehearsal.

Tomorrow afternoon will mark the end of the intersorority ticket-selling campaign. All returns must be in the hands of Floyd Sparks, business manager, Building Q, before 6 p. m. The prize will be a piece of furniture of the winning sorority's choice. Announcement of the winner will be made in next week's Hatchet.

Either Fannie Brice, the team of Olsen and Johnson, or Jack Pepper, former master of ceremonies at the Earle Theatre, playing in the current Ziegfeld Follies, will be the guest of the cast at one of its dress rehearsals, Ken Romney, publicity director, has announced.

All students who have season tickets and have not exchanged them for reserved seats are urged to do so at once in the Cue and Curtain office, Building M. The season tickets themselves will positively not be accepted for admission to the performance. Exchanges may be made between 11:30 and 5 p. m. daily.

Ambassador Speaks To Delta Phi Epsilon

Hon. William S. Culbertson, the original "Ambassador Bill" of the motion picture of that name played by Will Rogers, told members of Delta Phi Epsilon and their guests at a meeting last Wednesday, the inside story of political developments in Chile during his ambassadorship there from the eventful days of June, 1928 to the day two months ago when he resigned.

At the conclusion of his speech, Dr. Culbertson explained certain developments in Roumania, where he also has been minister, and commented on the NRA program with which he is now connected as advisor on industrial matters.

IT TAKES HEALTHY NERVES TO BE A FOOTBALL REFEREE

M. J. ("MIKE") THOMPSON, FAMOUS FOOTBALL REFEREE

IF YOU WANT TO SEE nerve strain, look at "Mike" Thompson's job—refereeing two tons of football brawn. "Mike" Thompson has been a steady smoker for years. "I'm open-minded on cigarettes," he says, "but I've got to keep my nerves in shape, so I stick to Camels."

Steady Smokers turn to Camels

M. J. ("Mike") Thompson, football's most famous referee, has to keep his nerves healthy. He says:

"Because nothing can be allowed to interfere with healthy nerves I smoke Camels. I have tried them all—given every popular brand a chance to show what it can offer. Camels don't upset my nerves even when I smoke constantly. And the longer I smoke them, the more I come to appreciate their mildness and rich flavor."

Many smokers who have changed to Camels report that their nerves are no longer irritable... "jumpy." Switch to Camels yourself. You will find that Camels do not jangle your nerves—or tire your taste.
